Simplify operations, improve resilience, achieve compliance, reduce incidents and free up your IT teams.

A firewall – be it physical or virtual – is the first line of defence for many organisations. Now, Optus Managed Cisco Firewall brings together everything you need in the one solution from the one point of contact – from the design and deployment of your firewall to its ongoing management and support.

Managed service benefits

The benefits of a managed service are equally clear, with access to highly skilled and certified professionals, 24x7 monitoring and proactive software patching to address critical vulnerabilities.

This ensures your firewall infrastructure remains up-to-date and optimised, and effectively protects your network against cyber threats. It also frees you to focus on core activities while leaving the complexities of firewall management to professionals with specialised knowledge in network security and standardised governance and change management procedures and certifications, e.g. ISO 20000, ISO 27000 and SOC 2 compliance.

The time to deploy is now

If any of the following scenarios resonate with you, then now's the time to explore the benefits of an Optus Managed Cisco Firewall.

- You need to increase security and simplify operations to scale your business (but don't have the resources)
- You find it difficult to maintain security compliance standards (with current processes and siloed tooling being a real problem)
- You want to increase the security posture for cloud-based applications and lack consistency across your business systems
- Your firewall infrastructure is ageing and you'd like a modernised firewall with better performance and more features
- You want to boost performance and the user experience – and achieve a better ROI.

And the benefits of a Cisco firewall are obvious:

195%

Leverage our 20+ years' experience with Cisco

Many organisations are hampered by limited inhouse resources and skills, market competition for talent and the complexity involved in juggling different network and security providers.

With Optus as your partner, you'll benefit from our long-standing Gold Partnership with Cisco, with Optus and CISCO forging a partnership for over 20 years.

As well as having 500+ Cisco Blackbelt certifications with joint investments in training and accreditation across multiple architectures (20+ specialisations and Cisco-powered services), we can offer competitive pricing, with the highest level of Cisco discounts available in Australia.

Optus and Cisco partnership are delivering Security and Network operations under one easy solution, providing a complete view of the customer's environment. Optus can support customers' in-house team by offering partnership in security and network operations a full managed service to provide expertise, removing complexity and reducing costs for customers.
