SECTION 1 - CONTEXT

INTRODUCTION

Optus is Australia's second largest telecommunications company. With over 8000 employees, Optus has grown rapidly since its establishment in 1992.

As a leader in integrated communications, we are uniquely placed to shape the future of the telecommunications industry. The future of Optus is not just telephony - it's about integrating entertainment and information services, voice and data, mobile and Internet access, wireless and wireline, satellite and cable. It's about one provider offering a complete service to its customers. The future services on offer are expected to provide exciting opportunities for enhanced access for people with disabilities. By enhancing access for people with disabilities, Optus will be enhancing access for all.

Our Aim

The Optus Disability Action Plan aims to remove barriers to access for customers, potential customers and staff.

Our Vision and Values

Providing for the needs of people with disabilities is consistent with Optus' Vision of being a leader in integrated communications and with its core values of:

- respect for the individual – Optus meets the challenge of finding a balance between the concerns of customers and the community and the need meet shareholder expectations
- customer focused – Optus' focus is on satisfying and exceeding customer expectations
- performance driven – Optus is committed to finding new opportunities to achieve leadership in communications.

The Disability Action Plan (the Plan) has been developed having regard to, and consistent with, Optus' Vision and Mission and Corporate Policies such as Equal Employment Opportunities and Occupational Health and Safety.

Our Commitment

In developing and implementing this Plan, Optus affirms its commitment to minimising and, where possible, eliminating discrimination.

This commitment covers all areas of the company's operations, notably:

- provision of products and services;
- employment practices; and
- community interaction/all dealings with the community.

The ongoing nature of this commitment will be reflected in an established process of monitoring and evaluation of the Optus Plan against measurable criteria.

LINKS TO THE DISABILITY DISCRIMINATION ACT AND INDUSTRY PROCESSES

Disability Defined

This Plan uses the definition of disability as included in the Disability Discrimination Act (1992), as follows:

Disability means

- (a) total or partial loss of the person's bodily or mental functions; or
- (b) total or partial loss of a part of the body; or
- (c) the presence in the body of organisms causing disease or illness; or
- (d) the presence in the body of organisms capable of causing disease or illness; or
- (e) the malfunction, malformation or disfigurement of a part of the person's body; or
- (f) a disorder or malfunction that results in the person learning differently from a person without the disorder or malfunction; or
- (g) a disorder, illness or disease that affects a person's thought processes, perception of reality, emotions or judgement or that results in disturbed behaviour;

and includes a disability that:

- (h) presently exists; or
- (i) previously existed but no longer exists; or
- (j) may exist in future; or
- (k) is imputed to a person.

The Australian Bureau of Statistics currently estimates that 3.6 million Australians have a disability, representing 19% of the population. This is predicted to increase steadily as the proportion of the aged in the community increases, currently 54% of people over 65 years of age has a disability.*

The result for telecommunications companies is an increasing proportion of customers, potential customers and staff who have a disability. In removing barriers for access for people with a disability, benefits for many others are achieved. Handsfree phones, for example, may provide access for people with mobility impairment but also provide benefits for a range of other users.

* Disability, Ageing and Carers: Summary of Findings, Australian Bureau of Statistics 1999

Examples of the common barriers to access to telecommunications by people with disabilities are as follows:

- being able to lift and hold a receiver
- being able to hear the phone ring and adjust the volume of the phone according to the tone and volume of the other person's voice
- being able to see the non standard enhanced call handling features on a telephone handset
- accessing a retail premise to purchase a service or pay a bill
- accessing advertising information in the media or by mail
- being able to contact the customer service section of the telecommunications company

The greatest barriers to access to telecommunications arise for people with hearing impairment or who are severely/profoundly deaf. Additional barriers occur for those with a number of needs.

Disability Action Plans

The DDA provides for the preparation of Disability Action Plans to encourage organisations to eliminate, as far as possible, disability discrimination in a planned way.

To comply with the DDA, the Optus Plan must include provisions relating to:

- (a) the devising of policies and programs to achieve the objects of the DDA; and
- (b) the communication of these policies and programs to persons within Optus; and
- (c) the review of practices within Optus with a view to the identification of any discriminatory practices; and
- (d) the setting of goals and targets, where these may reasonably be determined, against which the success of the Plan in achieving the objects of the DDA may be assessed; and
- (e) the means, other than those referred to in paragraph (d), of evaluating the policies and programs referred to in paragraph (a); and
- (f) the appointment of persons within Optus to implement the provisions referred to in paragraph (a) to (e) (inclusive).

Industry Codes and Standards

Optus actively supports the development of Industry Codes and Technical Standards by the Australian Communications Industry Forum (ACIF). ACIF has established a Disability Advisory Body to ensure the needs of people with disabilities is considered in the development of Codes and Standards.

In identifying compliance with specific ACIF Codes and Standards as a strategy within the Plan, Optus demonstrates its commitment to achieving industry best practice with regards to meeting the needs of people with disabilities.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE PLAN

Consultation

Initial consultation with disability organisations was conducted at a Disability Forum held in February 1998. Representatives from a range of disability organisations were involved in the Forum and provided valuable input into the direction and approach of the Optus Plan. The Optus Disability Action Plan Working Group was then formed as part of the broader consumer consultation process provided by the Optus Consumer Liaison Forum (CLF). As participants of this broader consultation process, the Plan Working Group members were able to provide specialist input regarding disability issues in the context of their knowledge of Optus.

The Plan Working Group firstly identified the key issues to be addressed by the Plan and secondly the objectives to address each of these. Consultation with Optus staff members, HREOC and other organisations was used to ensure strategies were achievable and consistent with external benchmarks.

Guiding Principles

The following principles have been identified as guiding the implementation of the Plan:

In implementing the Plan, Optus will focus on achieving accessibility.

In implementing the Plan's strategies, Optus will strive to achieve integration of the needs of people with disabilities with current Optus employment and business objectives.

In implementing and reviewing the Plan, Optus will commit to a process of ongoing consultation.

Where the retrofitting of current practices/products is inefficient, Optus will adopt a future focus.

Monitoring and Evaluation

This Plan is considered an evolving process with regular monitoring and review to be conducted. The document will reflect these reviews, with past, present and future actions to be recorded.

Performance will be monitored and evaluated in two ways:

(i) Implementation of Strategies

The implementation of the Plan will be monitored against the timeframes identified for each strategy. An initial evaluation of progress was conducted in the first 6 months of implementation and on an annual basis following that.

(ii) Outcomes of the Plan

The efficacy of the Plan in achieving the Key Outcomes will be assessed against the following Performance Indicators:

- | | |
|---------------------------------|---|
| Performance Indicator 1. | Low percentage of customer complaints/staff grievances relating to disability matters |
| Performance Indicator 2. | Increased number of customers with a disability |
| Performance Indicator 3. | Continued positive feedback from disability stakeholders with regards to Optus' initiatives for people with disabilities. |

Evaluation against performance indicators will take into consideration the effect of external factors, such as activities of competitors. As a result, a broad analysis will need to be used when assessing Optus' performance against the Plan.

Further details of the timeline for monitoring and evaluation of the Plan is included in Section 3.
