

Apple Music with Optus free trial

Approved customers who sign up or recontract and remain on selected Optus plans are eligible for a 6 or 12 month ("Trial Period") Apple Music free trial subscription ("Offer") depending on their plan. Excludes Fleet & TechFund customers.

Data charges apply. Limit one Offer per service per Apple ID. Apple Music is an optional extra and does not form part of any Optus plan. Fair Go Policy applies. For personal use in Australia.

To receive the Offer you must opt-in to the free trial within 30 days of activation of your Optus service, or such longer period as we may notify you.

If you cancel your eligible Optus plan, your right to access the Apple Music free trial will end immediately and you will forfeit any remaining time of your free trial.

To use Apple Music you must also agree to the Apple Music terms and conditions available here.

Activating the Offer

Eligible customers can opt-in to the Offer at point of sale or after the activation of their Optus service by adding the Offer to their plan. Once the Offer has been added to your Optus plan, we will send you an SMS within 72 hours which contains a link to the Apple Music App ("App").

You must download and install the App on a compatible device to use Apple Music (data charges apply). You must sign into the App using an Australian Apple ID in order to access Apple Music. The Trial Period begins on the day that the Offer is added to your account. The Trial Period will not be extended if you fail or delay activating the Offer after this date.

Billing

If you activate the Offer you will see a charge and corresponding credit each month on your Optus bill.

At the end the Trial Period you will automatically roll on to a paid Apple Music subscription charged at our standard monthly price, unless you opt out at any time during the Trial Period following the steps here. If you opt out at any time during the Trial Period, you will still have full access to the Offer until the end of your Trial Period.

Existing Apple Music users

If you have an active Apple Music trial with another party (including Apple) and you take up the Offer, you will forfeit the remainder of your Apple Music trial with that other party.

If you have a pre-existing Apple Music paid subscription you must cancel that subscription directly with Apple before signing up to the Offer. If you do not, you will continue to be charged by Apple for that other subscription.

Only one Apple Music service can be linked per Apple ID.

Change of ownership

If you are in the Trial Period and you transfer ownership of your Optus service, you should de-link your Apple ID from Apple Music on your Optus service prior to the transfer of ownership. This will allow the new Optus service owner to add their Apple ID to Apple Music in order for them to use the Offer for the remainder of the Trial Period.

If you are on a paid Apple Music subscription and you transfer ownership of your Optus service, you should opt-out of Apple Music on your Optus service. Otherwise, the new Optus service owner will continue to incur charges for the Apple Music subscription.

Privacy

By applying for the Offer you consent to Optus disclosing to third parties your information required for the provision of the service (including your phone number and the form of your Offer). Your use of the service is subject to the Optus privacy policies available here.
